CDC Kept Quiet on Data Showing Americans Regularly Use Firearms for Self-Defense

Since Parkland Shooting, 7 states or large cities have banned 'Assault Weapons' and/or semi-automatics

BATF opened hearings and discussions on Bumpstocks and trigger modifications. BATF has disclosed new verbiage and rules which not only ban devices, modifications, etc., but also set an acceptable rate of fire.

Amazon, which has banned sales of guns and ammunition for several years, is now banning sales of magazines, magazine accessories, triggers, trigger accessories, muzzle brakes, and many other firearm accessories. Meanwhile, Google is not only building 'gun related histories' on its customers, but is now selectively providing and excluding data in searches by customers. And, finally, Miriam-Webster, after 50 years of one definition for an 'assault weapon', has now redefined 'assault weapon' to fit its new anti-gun agenda. Remember, the courts routinely use the dictionary, as a court accepted reference.
